THE SEMINARY..

The Protestant Reformed Churches have from the very beginning recognized the need for a theological school in which men could be prepared for the ministry of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The establishment of a separate seminary was closely connected with the reasons for the organization of the Protestant Reformed Churches as a separate denomination. This denomination was formed to maintain the truth of Scripture, particularly against the errors of Arminianism, which have for many years vitiated the ministry of the church. The seminary is therefore dedicated to preserve and develop the truth of the Word of God and to provide an education in this truth in all branches of theology. More specifically, the seminary maintains this truth as it has been historically maintained since the time of the great Protestant Reformation, especially the Reformation of John Calvin. These principles and truths of the Calvin Reformation form the heart of all the instruction offered.

Basis of Instruction

The truths upon which this seminary stands are briefly these:

- 1) The infallible inspiration of the Holy Scriptures and their absolute authority in doctrine and life.
- 2) The Three Forms of Unity (namely, the Heidelberg Catechism, the Belgic Confession, and the Canons of Dordrecht), which have been historically maintained in the Reformed churches.

Accordingly, the instruction in this seminary finds its heart in the five points of Calvinism:

- 1) The sovereign and unconditional election of God.
- 2) The total depravity of man.
- 3) The particular and complete atonement of Christ made only for the elect.
- 4) The irresistible power of the grace of God in the work of salvation.
- 5) The preservation of the saints.

Of central importance in the instruction is the everlasting and unconditional covenant of grace established by God with His elect people and their elect seed in Jesus Christ.

It is apparent that, while these are the great truths of the Protestant Reformation and of subsequent Reformed theology, they are, at the same time, generally ignored and denied in the church of our day. In this the church has been unfaithful to her Reformation heritage.

It is further apparent that the sturdy defense of these truths is the urgent calling of the church — a calling that becomes ever more compelling in these troubled times.

The seminary of the Protestant Reformed Churches stands firmly committed to these truths of God's Word, seeks diligently to defend them, to develop them further, and to find in them the basis for all of the instruction offered in the school. In this way the seminary can serve the preservation of the truth in the midst of the church and be an instrument, under the blessing of Almighty God, to prepare men for the ministry of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Curriculum

A complete course in all the branches of theology is offered over four years. As is evident in the catalog, the emphasis in the curriculum is on dogmatics and exegesis. This is not without good reason. Dogmatics is important inasmuch as all the life of the church flows out of sound doctrine and a clear and concise understanding of the faith "once delivered to the saints." Sound and effective preaching is preaching of the truth. But exegesis is no less important inasmuch as there can be no true dogmatics except the truth be gleaned from Holy Writ. The strength of the church of Christ is her preaching; and the strength of her preaching is exegesis, since the Word of God alone must form the content of all the preaching of the gospel.

The remainder of the curriculum is not decorated with subjects that can be called "frills"; nor are subjects included that are only indirectly related to the preparation of men for the ministry. The subjects themselves and the material offered therein are eminently worthy of study and research, composed as they are of solid material able to qualify one intellectually and spiritually for the work of the ministry.

A student graduating from the school and receiving his diploma may be confident that the diploma represents a full seminary training that will equip him to labor with the rich heritage of Calvinistic and Reformed thought.

Diploma

The Protestant Reformed Theological Seminary is not authorized to grant degrees but does issue a diploma that has been recognized by other seminaries as the equivalent of the Master of Divinity degree.

Governance

The seminary is a denominational school under the immediate direction of the Theological School Committee, which is, in turn, responsible to the Synod of the Protestant Reformed Churches, which body makes all final decisions of policy.

The day-to-day administration of the school is in the hands of the rector, himself a faculty member and answerable to the Theological School Committee and to Synod.

Facilities

The seminary occupies a modern structure located on a beautiful ten-acre suburban campus. This facility affords students a comfortable setting in which to go about their work. Included in the building is a constantly expanding library. Recently (2019), the library went through a major renovation, including new lighting, decor, and furniture. With the emphasis on works of dogmatics and exegesis, the library is a valuable aid to students in their study and research. In addition, students have convenient access to the extensive libraries of Calvin

Seminary and Puritan Reformed Seminary in nearby Grand Rapids and of Western Seminary in nearby Holland.

Faculty-Student Ratio

The seminary is considerably smaller than most seminaries in the country, but this has its own advantages. It makes possible a close relationship between faculty and students; it enables the faculty to deal with the students and their problems on a very personal level; and it adds to the school a warmth and sense of cooperation that are highly conducive to spiritual and intellectual development.

The result is a school thoroughly dedicated to Scripture and committed deeply to the Calvinistic and Reformed heritage. The seminary therefore provides a solid preparation for the ministry of the Word.

Visitors

Anyone not enrolled in a particular seminary class who desires to visit must obtain prior permission of the professor, preferably a day or two in advance. If one of the students desires to bring a visitor, he should obtain permission to do so.

Admission to the PR Theological Seminary

Admission Requirements

The curriculum is designed for those Protestant Reformed men who aspire to the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches. However, students from other churches are encouraged to enroll in this course of study. Permission to enroll in the seminary is granted by the Synod of the Protestant Reformed Churches upon recommendation of the Theological School Committee.

For a student to be considered for admission to the seminary he must demonstrate that the following requirements have been met:

- 1) That he is (as verified by a letter of testimony from his consistory) a member in full communion, sound in faith and upright in walk, and that he exhibits the qualities and personality necessary for a gospel minister. Such recommendation ought to contain the consistory's evaluation of the applicant's spiritual and intellectual gifts, as well as any other areas of concern.
- 2) That he is (as verified by a certificate from a reputable physician) in sound health.
- 3) That he has completed (as verified by official academic records) all the academic requirements for entrance to the seminary, viz.,
 - a) the earning of a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.
 - b) the completion of all pre-seminary course requirements.
- 4) That he has obtained (as verified by his academic records) a cumulative grade point average of 2.7 (B-) in his pre-seminary course requirements and a 2.7 cumulative GPA in his college work. The student would do well to pay close attention to his grade-point average as he proceeds through his college work, since admittance to the seminary is affected by his college GPA. A student may be admitted on probation if he fails to meet either of the 2.7 grade point requirements. A student entering seminary on probation shall remain on probation for one year, must maintain at least a C average, and must have no failing grade in any course. His status shall be reviewed at the end of each semester during this year.

Application Procedure

Application for all students is made through the Theological School Committee. For the student who aspires to the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches (diploma pre-licentiate) a personal appearance before the Theological School Committee, at their March meeting, is required. After the personal interview and after the examination of the credentials submitted by the applicant, the Theological School Committee will decide if the applicant is admissible as a seminary student. If so, the Theological School Committee will make recommendation to the next Synod that he be admitted. If there are any deficiencies in course work, the student will be so informed and his status will be probationary until such deficiencies are made up.

For those students who do not aspire to the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches (diploma non-licentiate) the requirements for admission are the same, except that the personal interview is waived. These students should mail their application materials, by May 1, directly to the Secretary of the Theological School Committee, 4949 Ivanrest Avenue, Wyoming, Michigan 49418.

Special students need file only a request for admission, together with a rationale for their enrollment in the seminary. This request should be sent to the Secretary of the Theological School Committee at the above address.

Classification of Students

Students who enter the seminary are classified as diploma pre-licentiate, diploma non-licentiate, or special non-diploma students.

- 1) Diploma pre-licentiate students are those students who intend to enter the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches or in her sister churches and who will eventually be licensed to speak a word of edification in the Protestant Reformed Churches.
- 2) Diploma non-licentiate students are those students from other denominations who are attending the seminary but who do not intend to enter the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches and who therefore will not be licensed to speak a word of edification in the Protestant Reformed Churches.
- 3) Special students, or unclassified non-diploma students, are:
 - a) those students enrolled in the seminary on a non-credit (audit) basis either as full-time or part-time students whose purpose is not to enter the ministry in any denomination, but to attend the seminary for their own personal growth and development; or

- b) those students enrolled in the seminary as guest matriculants with the intention of transferring their credits to another seminary.

Changes in classification are allowed and can be made by forwarding to the Theological School Committee a request for such a change of classification along with any other documents necessary for the classification desired.

Admission of Foreign Students

The Protestant Reformed Theological Seminary is authorized under Federal law to enroll non-immigrant alien students. Application procedure and requirements for admission for foreign students are the same as above. In addition, students are to apply for an I-20 with the U.S. government (DHS-SEVIS) through the registrar's office or transfer their I-20 from their college/university to the seminary, which includes applying for a student visa in one's own country.

Non-discrimination Policy

The Protestant Reformed Theological Seminary admits students of any race, color, and national or ethnic origin. Because the PRCA (and the Theological School Committee and the faculty who serve her) are committed to the biblical and confessional teaching on male leadership in the church, only men are admitted to the full ministry programs (MDiv equivalent, diploma pre-licentiate and diploma non-licentiate). Women are allowed to enroll as special students or simply to attend classes as auditors.

Academic Programs

Pre-Seminary Requirements

A complete high school education and a bachelor level degree (B.A. or B.S.) from an accredited college or university are required for entrance into the seminary department. Moreover, each entrant into this department must produce evidence that he has credit for the following college courses:

Latin — 4 semesters, intermediate-level proficiency

Greek — 4 semesters, intermediate-level proficiency

English Composition — 2 semesters, one of which must be beyond the freshman composition level

Philosophy — the history of philosophy: must include ancient, medieval, and modern

History — a minimum of 2 semesters of history of western civilization

Psychology — 1 semester: Introductory Psychology

Speech — 1 semester: public speaking

Logic — 1 semester

In working toward a Bachelor's degree, the student is strongly advised to place emphasis on courses in the fields of history, literature, philosophy, and education. The student is encouraged to consult the Registrar for advice concerning course selection. It should be noted that the student ought to complete his Latin grammar requirement before he takes Greek grammar. Note also that Greek grammar and reading are taught at the seminary. Pre-seminary students are urged to take advantage of this offering. Students unable to do so will be required to pass a competency test in Greek before they are allowed to begin work in the seminary.

Special Seminary Entrance Program (SSEP)

Synod 2023 approved permitting the Theological School Committee (TSC), in consultation with the faculty, to admit provisionally into the seminary older students who lack all or some of the pre-seminary requirements. A special program of study will be designed to make up for this lack and will be somewhat less than the normal education for a minister (a four-year undergraduate degree plus four-year seminary program). The specifics of such a program will be determined on a case-by-case basis, and will depend on the student's age, experience, educational background, gifts, etc. Formal admission to the seminary and approval of the specific program must be sought at the following synod.

Practical Implementation of SSEP

If an older man applies for entrance into the seminary:

1. With the faculty, the TSC will assess the applicant as to his gifts, his educational background, and all his other circumstances.
2. With the faculty, the TSC will propose a study program of 4-6 years that would cover all the essential undergraduate courses and the essential seminary courses. The undergraduate and seminary courses would be taken concurrently.
3. The applicant will be permitted to begin taking classes and receive student aid prior to being formally admitted by synod.
4. The formal program for each applicant will be considered case by case and be submitted to synod for approval.

Student Aid for SSEP

The Student Aid Committee (SAC) is authorized to provide financial aid to those SSEP students who have been provisionally admitted to seminary and who apply for aid. The SAC will follow all the normal guidelines for determining the amount of aid. (See PRC Acts of Synod 2023, pp. 348-49).

Description of the Seminary Curriculum

The curriculum is designed specifically to be a course of theological study for those preparing to enter the ministry. Although the emphasis in the curriculum is upon dogmatics and exegesis, all courses necessary for the adequate preparation of a minister are taught.

Internship Program

Objective

To give the student practical experience in all aspects of the work of a minister of the Word: preaching, catechism, pastoral care, leading Bible studies, evangelism, consistory meetings, and observer at Classis.

Implementation

- 1) Diploma pre-licentiate students must participate in the internship program. For other students, the internship is optional.
- 2) The duration of the internship will be one semester plus one summer, with provision made for vacation time in the summer months (3 or 4 weeks as is provided for most of our ministers).
- 3) This is to be the second semester of the third year or the first semester of the fourth year of a four-year program. The second semester of the fourth year is to be spent at the seminary (prepare for synodical examinations, etc.).
- 4) The student must meet all required grade-point averages in order to be considered for the internship. No student will be assigned an internship who has not been licensed to speak a word of edification by the end of year three, semester one.

Requirements for the Student Intern

- 1) The student must preach a minimum of nine sermons during the internship. At least three of these sermons must be on the Heidelberg Catechism, and two must be for special occasions (e.g., Thanksgiving and Advent). The other sermons must be on texts of the student's choice. All sermons must be new sermons for the student. Complete exegesis and sermon outline must be submitted to the supervising pastor for critique and approval at least two weeks prior to the student's preaching each sermon. The student must send a copy of the sermon outline to the faculty in care of the Rector immediately after the sermon has been preached.
- 2) The student must teach a minimum of two catechism classes per week. One of these must be in Bible History, the other a doctrinal class.
- 3) The student must lead a minimum of two Bible Study Societies (weekly or bi-weekly).
- 4) The student must attend some consistory meetings during the course of the internship.
- 5) The student must, either in company with the pastor or on his own, do pastoral work (e.g., family visitation, sick visiting, comforting the bereaved, counseling sessions). The student's pastoral experience ought to be both as broad and as intensive as possible.

6) During the internship, the student must read and briefly review a minimum of twelve books taken from all areas of the theological curriculum, but with emphasis on Practical-Theological studies. Specific titles will be assigned by the faculty. These reviews must be submitted to the faculty.

7) After the internship, the student must submit a paper (five page, single spaced) in which he reflects on the various aspects of the internship experience, telling how he participated in the life and work of the church, and how he profited from it. This paper is due before the beginning of the January Interim.

8) No criticism, by the student, of the supervising pastor, consistory, or congregation will be tolerated.

Responsibilities of Supervising Pastor and Consistory

1) The pastor must meet with the student following the Sundays on which the student preaches in order to discuss the sermon and his conducting of the worship service. In addition the pastor must meet with the student twice per month to discuss the student's work and progress.

2) The pastor, in consultation with the consistory, must submit an overall evaluation of the student's work, together with recommendations, etc., at the conclusion of the student's internship. An evaluation form will be provided.

3) The consistory should consider providing at least part of the financial support of the student intern if necessary.

Responsibilities of the Student's Faculty Mentor

1) A faculty mentor will be appointed for each intern.

2) The faculty mentor must monitor the student's work and progress. He must do this at least once per month through consultation with the pastor and directly with the student intern. The professor will if possible attend some of the services when the student preaches.

3) The faculty mentor must report to the faculty on the student intern's work and progress.

Grading of the Intern's Work

1) The student will be graded by the faculty on his internship on a Pass/Fail basis. In determining the grade, the faculty shall take into account the student's paper on all aspects of the internship, the student's twelve book reviews, the report of the supervising pastor, and the report of the student's faculty mentor.

2) Students who pass the internship will be granted 16 hours of credit.

3) Students who fail the internship will not be allowed to finish the seminary course of study.

Academic Regulations

System of Grading

Each student receives a grade in his courses at the close of the semester. The following system of grades is used:

Percent Grade	Significance	Honor Points
100	A	Superior..... 4.0
97-99.....	A-.....	Superior..... 3.7
94-96.....	B+.....	Good..... 3.3
91-93.....	B.....	Good..... 3.0
88-90.....	B-.....	Good..... 2.7
85-87.....	C+.....	Average..... 2.3
82-84.....	C.....	Average..... 2.0
79-81.....	C-.....	Average..... 1.7
76-78.....	D+.....	Weak but passing..... 1.3
73-75.....	D.....	Weak but passing..... 1.0
70-72.....	D-.....	Weak but passing..... 0.7
below 70 ...	F.....	Failure..... 0.0
	I.....	Incomplete
	P.....	Passing

Honor points per subject are determined by multiplying the honor points assigned to the letter-grade earned times the number of credit hours assigned to the course. A student's semester and cumulative grade-point average are computed by dividing the total honor points earned by the number of attempted hours. A 2.5 cumulative GPA is required for graduation.

Regular Course Grade-Point Average

A cumulative grade-point average of 2.5 is required of every student in each of the four major divisions, namely, Biblical-Exegetical Studies, Dogmatical Studies, Church-Historical Studies, and Practical-Theological Studies. The diploma pre-licentiate student will not be allowed to enter the internship program unless he has a minimum GPA of 2.5 in Practice Preaching for the year previous to the internship (four sermons, ordinarily during the third year).

Further, the diploma pre-licentiate student will not be allowed to sit for his final examination before Synod unless he has attained an overall 2.5 average, and the diploma non-licentiate will not be allowed to take his final, written examinations until the 2.5 average is obtained.

The following schedule will serve as an indicator to students of satisfactory progress toward this objective:

Hours completed	Minimum GPA required
15	1.9
30	2.0
45	2.2
60	2.3
75	2.4
90+	2.5

Students who fall below the minimum grade-point average listed above will be sent a letter of academic warning, thus placing them on academic probation. Students who experience academic difficulty for three successive semesters may be asked to leave the seminary program. Students who are dismissed for academic reasons may apply for readmission after a year of absence from the seminary.

Practice Preaching Grade-Point Average

In a typical program, students will take five semesters of practice preaching. A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 for the five semesters is required. In addition, a minimum GPA of 2.5 for the last three semesters is required.

Class Status

Full-time diploma students are classified, depending on their progress, as freshmen (first-year), sophomores (second-year), juniors (third-year), or seniors (fourth-year). Promotion from one class status to another is determined by the faculty.

Semester Examinations

Final examinations in each course at the end of each semester are required of every student. Should a diploma pre-licentiate student or a diploma non-licentiate student fail any such examination, arrangements can be made with the professor for re-examination. Such re-examination will be allowed once; and should a student fail the same examination twice, another examination will not be given until the student has repeated the failed course in its entirety.

Final Comprehensive Examinations

The diploma pre-licentiate student will sit for his final comprehensive examinations before the synod. These exams will be oral, except for New Testament and Old Testament Exegesis, which will be written. The student will be examined in Dogmatics, Old Testament History, New Testament History, Church History, Church Polity, and Practica. In addition, the student must preach a sermon before the Synod.

The diploma pre-licentiate student will be allowed to sit for this examination only if he has met all the requirements of the seminary curriculum, has maintained a cumulative grade-point average of 2.5, and has passed all branches of study.

Final comprehensive examinations for the diploma non-licentiate student will be written in their entirety. Similarly, a 2.5 cumulative grade-point average and passing grades in all branches also apply.

Academic Records

Student permanent records, which record all work done in the seminary, as well as courses allowed in transfer, are kept by the Registrar. (Determination of which courses will be allowed for transfer must be made in consultation with the Registrar.) Grade reports are issued to each student at the conclusion of each semester.

(When a military veteran student is allowed transfer credit, and his training period is shortened proportionately, both the student and the Department of Veteran Affairs will be notified of such transfer.)

Class Schedule

Students are scheduled for classes four days per week, four hours per day, for a total of 16 hours per week.

Monday mornings are reserved for practice preaching.

The school offices and library hours are from 7:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Class Attendance

Regular class attendance is required of all students. Excessive unexcused absences will result in the following action:

- 1) The student will be given a warning that his attendance must be regular if he is to remain a student at the seminary.
- 2) Excessive absence after the warning will result in dismissal from the seminary.

Any work missed by a student during an unexcused absence may or may not be accepted, subject to the judgment of the professor. The professor's decision is determinative in these instances.

Students are expected to be present for their classes at the time indicated on the class schedule. Excessive tardiness may result in a student's being placed on probation.

A student with more than three unexcused absences will be dismissed from school. Further, a student with three unexcused tardies will be issued a written warning and placed under probation for one week. If at the end of one week the student has not been removed from probation, he will be dismissed from school.

No recording device is permitted in any class without the permission of the professor.

Leave of Absence

Students who for personal or medical reasons find it necessary to request a leave of absence from the seminary may do so in writing to the Theological School Committee. Request for readmission must be made to the Theological School Committee.

Placement

The seminary offers no placement assistance to its students or graduates. Part-time work assignments and preaching assignments are sometimes arranged by the faculty with the churches of the PRCA.

Equipment

Computers with Internet access are available for student use in the library, as is also a copier/scanner/printer. Wifi is available throughout the seminary building. Staff is available to assist with any other needs students may have.

Student Expenses

Tuition Schedule

Tuition is charged at the rate of $100 per semester hour, or $1,200 per full-time semester, whichever is less. A full-time semester is a load of 12 semester hours or more. Payment should be made at the time of registration. (Student expenses are limited to tuition and books. There are no fees, deposits, or other charges of any kind.) Tuition charges are waived for students who intend to enter the ministry of the Word in the Protestant Reformed Churches and may be waived for students in other churches with whom the PRCA has an official relationship.

Individuals who wish to audit courses may do so with the approval of the instructor. A fee of $100 per course will be charged. Members of the PRCA are exempt from this charge.

Tuition Refund Policy

For those students who withdraw or are dismissed during the course of the semester, reimbursement of tuition and fees will be based on the ratio of remaining days of instruction to total days of instruction in a term. The formula that will be used is as follows: Number of days of instruction remaining in the course, divided by number of instructional days in the course, multiplied by the tuition charged, equals the amount of the student refund. Tuition that is recoverable according to said formula will be refunded within 30 days, or, if requested, within three business days.

In case of a student's prolonged illness or accident, or in case of a death in the family or some other circumstance that makes it impractical to complete the course, the school will make a settlement that is reasonable and fair to both.

(Note: If an applicant is rejected by the school before enrollment, all tuition paid by the applicant will be repaid in full within 30 days, or, if requested, within 3 business days after such a request.)

Living Expenses

There is no housing provided by the seminary. A student is expected to provide for his own living quarters, though the seminary may be of some assistance in securing adequate housing.

Books

The seminary operates a bookstore, and all books necessary for course work may be obtained there.

Financial Aid

Financial aid is available, through the Student Aid Committee of the Protestant Reformed Churches, to students studying to enter the ministry in the Protestant Reformed Churches. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Registrar of the seminary.

Grievance Policy

The Protestant Reformed Theological Seminary is licensed as a propriety school in the State of Michigan and is therefore subject to 1943 P.A. 148, entitled “An act to provide for the regulation and licensing of propriety schools in the state; to require surety; to provide for collection and disposition of fees; and to prescribe penalties for the violation of this act.”

Students enrolled at the seminary have the right, under this legislation, to file complaints about the seminary for any violation of this act or for violation of any rules promulgated under this act. Complaints may be sent to the Michigan Department of Energy, Labor & Economic Growth in Lansing, MI. (or filed with the State of Michigan at www.michiganps.net)

Semester

Research Methodology 101

A study of the principles and methods of research and writing. The student will be taught how to evaluate, interpret, and eliminate sources; how to formulate a thesis; how to let the thesis control the research and writing; and other practical aspects of writing a research paper. The student must apply these principles to all major papers that he writes during his seminary training.

One hour, First Semester.....Prof. Kuiper

Independent Studies, all curriculum areas.....Faculty

Interim

Contemporary Roman Catholic Theology—The course focuses on contemporary Roman Catholic theology in light of the Council of Trent, Vatican I, and Vatican II, and recent developments in Roman Catholicism. The purpose of the course is to examine the central teachings of the Roman Catholic Church and evaluate these teachings in the light of Scripture and the Reformed confessions. It is also the purpose of the course to assess the current movement within evangelical and Reformed churches that seeks rapprochement with Rome, based on the contention that since the time of the Reformation Rome has changed.....Prof. Cammenga

The Theology of John Calvin—The course is designed to give the student an overview of the teaching of John Calvin and to indicate his influence on the development of the Reformed tradition. In order to accomplish this, students will be assigned select readings in the Institutes of the Christian Religion, Calvin’s Old and New Testament commentaries, his sermons, his catechisms, his many tracts and treatises, as well as his voluminous correspondence (letters to and from ordinary folk, distinguished leaders of the Reformation, and rulers throughout Europe). Besides readings in Calvin’s own writing, students will be assigned readings in secondary sources.....Prof. Cammenga

Reformation of 1953—The class covers the history of the schism that occurred in the Protestant Reformed Churches in 1953, including the history of the PRC leading up to the split and the aftermath, as well as the church political issues. The doctrine of God’s covenant of grace is discussed in connection with the controversy, and comparisons made of the covenant theologies of other Dutch Reformed theologians. Brief summary papers on readings from original sources are required Prof. Dykstra

Heidelberg Catechism Preaching—The course includes: a historical defense of the practice of catechism preaching; the history of Heidelberg Catechism preaching; an emphasis on the proper manner of preaching the Heidelberg Catechism over against the “Scripture-text method”; and practical guidelines for preparing catechism sermonsProf. Gritters

Reformed Covenantal Ethics—Designed to help those who aspire to the gospel ministry to understand, from a distinctly Reformed perspective, the prescriptive will of God for Christian conduct, with emphasis on how to preach commands. The course does not teach academic moral theology, but emphasizes the Reformed principles of Christian conduct as well as the application of those principles to Christian behavior Prof. Gritters

of the
Theological School
of the
Protestant Reformed Churches

Article 1

The Theological School of the Protestant Reformed Churches has for its purpose the training of future ministers of the Word for the aforesaid churches. The Theological School will also train others for the ministry who intend to serve in other churches. These latter shall, however, meet the academic requirements of Article 10. Special or unclassified (non-diploma) students intending to enter the ministry in other churches may be admitted by the Theological School Committee with the approval of synod.

Article 2

The supervision and administration of the institution belongs to the synod itself. However, synod shall appoint a committee consisting of no fewer than ten members to do the work of synod in the interim between synodical meetings.

Article 3

At this institution, the following branches of study shall be taught: the basic scriptural languages, Hebrew and Greek, and such other languages as synod may decide upon; Hermeneutics, Exegesis, Isagogics, Sacred History, Typology, Church History, Church Polity, History of Dogma, Dogmatics, Concepts, Homiletics, Catechetics, Poimenics, and other subjects which may be agreed upon by faculty and synod.

Article 4

The professors are appointed on salaries determined by the synod and for definite departments. The rule shall be to appoint only such men who have especially prepared themselves for the particular branch or branches they are to teach. With a view to orderly transition in the seminary, a new professor shall be appointed when any of the active professors reaches the age of 65.

Article 5

Whenever a professor is to be appointed, the Theological School Committee shall propose names at the meeting of the synod. The aggregate shall be discussed at this meeting, and in this discussion the advice of the theological faculty shall be sought. After this discussion and consultation, the synod shall proceed to make a nomination from the aggregate. From this nomination synod elects a professor. In electing professors, synod shall give preference to one already a minister of the gospel.

Article 6

The installation of professors of theology shall take place according to the form, after they shall have signed the Formula of Subscription in the presence of the Theological School Committee.

Article 7

A professor shall serve four years, and after that three years if reappointed. If after this he be reappointed, such appointment shall be permanent. Thereafter his services at school can be terminated only through the synod formally retiring, expelling, or deposing him and for reason urgent, cogent, and legitimate. When a professor reaches the age of 65, and on a yearly basis thereafter, the professor shall be consulted by the Theological School Committee about his capability to continue teaching or possible emeritation. Whether a professor shall continue to teach all or some of his subjects after the age of 65 shall be decided by the synod on a yearly basis, upon the recommendation of the Theological School Committee. A professor shall retire when he reaches 70 years of age and shall be declared emeritus.

The following criteria shall be used to judge the competence and development of a professor when he is up for reappointment:

1. He shall demonstrate in all his work a continuing commitment to the truth of Scripture, as summarized in the Reformed creeds and as taught in our churches.
2. He shall give evidence of the ability to teach, being fresh and lively.

3. He shall show the ability to do theological research and scholarly study in his department.
4. He shall be a godly example to the students and denomination.
5. He shall exhibit a willingness to contribute to the well-being of the denomination in the areas of preaching, writing, lecturing, serving on standing or special committees of synod.
6. He shall, before his first reappointment, have completed and received approval of his Master's Thesis.

The process: The TSC shall present to synod a recommendation concerning reappointment.

1. The TSC must exercise careful oversight of the professor's instruction and of his work in light of the criteria given above.
2. The judgment of the faculty concerning the man's work should be given to the TSC and become a part of their recommendation.

Article 8

Professors emeriti who are honorably retired and who had received an appointment are qualified to receive support from the churches, since they, just as the ministers, devoted all their gifts and talents entirely and exclusively to the service of the churches.

Arrangements for retirement shall be in charge of the Theological School Committee, subject to final determination by synod. All support of emeriti professors shall be directly from the Emeritus Fund.

If retirement proves necessary by reason of sickness or other disability during the school year, the Theological School Committee shall temporarily determine the amount of support to be given and shall notify the Emeritus Committee. The latter shall then authorize payment of the support determined upon from the Emeritus Fund.

Article 9

The instruction shall be given by the professors and, if need be, by assistants appointed by the faculty in conjunction with the Theological School Committee with the approval of synod. In case of emergency the approval of synod shall be sought at its next meeting.

Article 10

Permission to pursue the theological course in the seminary shall be granted by the synod, upon recommendation of the Theological School Committee, to such an aspirant only who comes supplied with a letter of recommendation from his consistory explaining that he is a member in full communion, sound in faith, upright in walk, and exhibits the qualities and personality necessary for a gospel minister. Such recommendation ought to contain the consistory's evaluation of the applicant's spiritual and intellectual gifts, as well as any other areas of concern. The applicant shall also provide a certificate from a reputable physician showing him to be in good health.

A complete high school education and a bachelor level degree (B.A. or B.S.) from an accredited college or university are required for entrance into the seminary department. Moreover, each entrant into this department must produce evidence that he has credit for the following college courses:

- Latin — 4 semesters, intermediate-level proficiency
- Greek — 4 semesters, intermediate-level proficiency
- English Composition — 2 semesters, one of which must be beyond the freshman composition level
- Philosophy — the history of philosophy: must include ancient, medieval, and modern
- History — a minimum of 2 semesters of history of western civilization
- Psychology — 1 semester: Introductory Psychology
- Speech — 1 semester: public speaking
- Logic — 1 semester

A B- cumulative average shall be required for entrance into the seminary department. If such average is not maintained, a student may be received on probation by consent of the Theological School Committee in conjunction with the faculty.

The student shall furnish the faculty with a transcript of credits earned at other colleges, and these shall be included in the academic record of the student and in the annual report of the grades to synod.

Article 11

Promotion to a higher grade shall take place after the student has successfully passed his courses.

Moreover, it is required of every seminary student that he maintain at least a 2.5 cumulative average in each of the four major divisions, viz., Biblical-Exegetical Studies, Dogmatical Studies, Church-Historical Studies, and Practical-Theological Studies. In addition, a minimum GPA of 2.0 for the two and a half years of Practice Preaching (ten sermons) and a minimum of 2.5 for the last year and a half of Practice Preaching (six sermons) are required. The diploma pre-licentiate student will not be allowed to enter the internship program unless he has a minimum GPA of 2.5 in Practice Preaching for the year previous to the internship (four sermons, ordinarily during the third year). A student shall be forbidden to take a final examination before synod having less than a 2.5 cumulative average. The final examination before synod of the student having a failing grade in any branch shall be forbidden. Arrangements, however, may be made for a re-examination of any student having a failing grade in any branch; but in case a student shall fail in such reexamination, he shall be forbidden to proceed to the next subject until he shall take the course anew in which he has failed and shall show a passing grade therein.

Article 12

The examination at the end of each semester shall be written. The final examinations of those students graduating in theology and intending to enter the ministry in the churches shall be oral. The only exception shall be a written examination in translation and exegesis on passages from the Hebrew Old Testament and the Greek New Testament assigned by the Theological School Committee, said examinations to be submitted to synod for approval. There shall be oral examinations in: Dogmatics, Old Testament History, New Testament History, Church History, Church Polity, and Practica. In addition, each student shall preach a sermon before synod on an assigned text.

Written examinations for those students intending to enter the ministry in other churches shall be administered by the faculty and must be successfully passed before a diploma is granted.

Article 13

The faculty shall license a student to speak a word of edification in the meetings for public worship when they deem him ready.

Article 14

The school year shall be divided into two semesters, with the months of June, July, and August set apart for summer vacation. There shall be a two-week Christmas vacation and a one-week spring vacation.

Article 15

The student shall conduct himself in and out of school as a Christian. Failing in this, he shall be admonished by the faculty in conjunction with the Theological School Committee. If after these repeated admonitions the student remains obstinate, he shall be expelled from school. In case a gross sin has been committed, he shall, with the approval of the Theological School Committee, be expelled immediately.

Article 16

The student shall pursue the course of study at the school with diligence. He shall regularly attend the classes and conduct himself in accordance with the rules of this institution.

Article 17

This constitution, drafted upon the instruction of the Classis of the Protestant Reformed Churches, accepted by that of June 1 and 2, 1938, and amended by the Synods of 1941, 1960, 1973, 1985, 1999, and 2003, remains in force until another synod shall have amended it.
